

Marianne Marchese, ND

Natural Management of Women's Health Update: Cervical Dysplasia, HPV, PCOS, and Dysmenorrhea

About the lecture:

This lecture will provide an update on the Human Papillomavirus and guidelines for managing cervical dysplasia with naturopathic treatments. Anti-viral suppository protocols will be given as well as detailed information on the escharotic treatment. New information will be presented on treating polycystic ovarian syndrome and dysmenorrhea with nutrition, botanical medicine and nutritional supplementation.

About Dr. Marchese:

Dr. Marchese is a clinician, author, and educator. She graduated from Creighton University in 1990 with a B.S. in Occupational Therapy and received her Doctorate of Naturopathic Medicine from the National College of Naturopathic Medicine (NCNM). She completed a two-year postgraduate residency in Integrative Medicine and Women's Health and a six-month post-graduate training in Environmental Medicine. Dr. Marchese has been an adjunct faculty member at a post-graduate college since 2003. She first taught at NCNM supervising women's health and environmental medicine clinic shifts and later taught toxicology and nutrition at Life Chiropractic College. Currently she is adjunct faculty at the Southwest College of Naturopathic Medicine supervising clinic shifts and teaching gynecology. Dr. Marchese has had articles published in the area of environmental medicine and women's health in magazines and journals such as; Raising Arizona Kids Magazine, Taste for Life Magazine, Townsend Letter and Symbiosis Journal. She has been interviewed and quoted as an expert in many national magazines. She currently writes a column on environmental medicine for The Townsend Letter. Dr. Marchese is currently Vice President of the Arizona Naturopathic Medical Association, and on the board of directors of the Council of Naturopathic Medical Education. She was named to Phoenix magazines' 2010 Top Doctor issue as one of the top naturopathic physicians in the Phoenix metropolitan area. She maintain private practice in Phoenix AZ. www.drmarcchese.com

Contacting Dr. Marchese:

13832 N. 32nd St., Suite 126
Phoenix, AZ 85032

602.493.2273 – Office

marchese@dr.marchese.com